

The Confessions Of Harry Lorrequer

By Charles Lever

Fireship Press, United States, 2009. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . A wild ride through the 19th Century Irish countryside. This is the first of Charles Lever's rollicking military novels. It involves a dashing young British Army officer, who is transferred to Cork with his regiment. While there, he undergoes what Lever calls a mass of incongruous adventures; or, to put it in the words of the hero of the story: Such was our life in Cork-dining, drinking, dancing, riding steeplechases, pigeon shooting, and tandem driving-filling up any little interval that was found to exist between a late breakfast, and the time to dress for dinner. The book is filled with hilarious stories and anecdotes, and all sorts of interesting Irish characters-including some penetrating sketches of Catholic clerical life. In the later part of the book, the story ventures to Europe where we meet Arthur O Leary, who becomes a main character in a later volume. Lever was astonished at the success of Harry Lorrequer, and once remarked: If this sort of thing amuses them, I can go on for ever. He did not go...
