Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Lyons Bookkeeping, Vol. 2: Parts I and II The plan of teaching bookkeeping with business papers is a very popular one and must continue to be the favorite plan for those who wish the course to give the student, in addition to a knowledge of the principles of accounting, a familiarity with the materials and the methods of a modern business office. There are in general two schemes for teaching bookkeeping by the individual business practice plan. The one scheme involves the use of business papers solely to accompany and illustrate the transactions set forth in the text. The other uses the business papers as the basis of the student's entries in his books. There is a vast difference between these two plans. The former plan makes the business papers a subordinate and auxiliary feature of the work that can be and often is slighted if not absolutely ignored. The latter plan makes the business papers the foundation of the course. The papers come to the student just as they come to him in business; from the data upon them he constructs his bookkeeping entries; and they are then systematically filed and become a part of the records. Thus business papers, a knowledge of which is in itself of value, constitute the central feature of the course, and the student, through receiving them, making his entries, and disposing of them, is taught business procedure, accounting, and office methods. The plan of using business papers as the basis of the presentation of the transactions is the one which is followed in the business practice sections of Lyons Bookkeeping and these business practice sections constitute the...
