Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Sermon: Delivered on Sabbath Evening, April 23, 1865 Speak Lord, for thy servant heareth. - 1 Samuel, III: 9. You will not fail to remember the occasion on which this solemn appeal to Jehovah, invoking a divine communication, was made. It was the dictation of the head of the Hebrew hierarchy, and the Chief Magistrate of the nation, to that consecrated child who was destined by God hereafter to become the leader and prophetic teacher of the people. The period was one of universal popular, political, and religious corruption. Nay more, this corruption had reached the very fountains of power. The springs of the national life were tainted by the reckless violation of the constitution of the government, civil and ecclesiastical, at the hands of the accredited rulers of the land. The cup of the divine patience was full to overflowing. The tempest of God s wrath hung black and heavy over the guilty nation.
